

Instructions for playing:

Matching game

The game needs to appoint a leader who is allowed to see this paper. He/she has to cut out the squares, but not mix up the columns. So he has to sort three stacks of the clippings by column, called 1, 2 and 3.

Each sets consists of a headline, a title and an explanation.

He/she can shuffle the stacks, but he/she is not allowed to mix for example stack 1 and 2. Then he/she can give them to the players. They have to combine three cards to create one matching set, consisting of one card from each stack, creating six sets.

	People could not express their opinion	The right to your own opinion	Expression of one's own opinion could get one into jail.
	Religious observance	Freedom of Religion	Communists were atheist, so there was a harder life for believers
	Censure of art	Restriction of culture	Performances of artists and singers were limited
	One could only leave the country if they left a family member behind	The right to travel	Permission was needed to leave the country, and one had to stay so the others had to come back
	There was no Democracy	The right to Vote	Voting was only a formal thing, the winner was clear before.
	Groups of people are forbidden.	Assembly	People couldn't form civic associations.
	1	2	3